

I am deeply disturbed that this type of biased programming does not serve the common good of the country. Opinions disguised as facts so close to election day is a blatant attempt to alter the outcome of the election. Sinclair should be held accountable for using public air waves to promote their personal political views. Anyone who lives in this country understands the frightening impact television has on the behavior and opinions of uninformed members of our society. This unprecedented pre-empting of airtime to force one's political ideology on public airwaves should be considered dangerous and not in the best interests of democracy.
